Students who were eligible for financial aid and demonstrate an exceptional financial need can be considered for the student portion of the CRRSAA grant as a result of the pandemic. Acceptable documentation included expenses based on the cost of attendance that included technology, health care, childcare, course materials, rent, food, or other related expenses. The institution used the grant limits for the student federal aid from our existing emergency loan program reducing it to $750 per student to maximize the number of students who would receive the grant.
